Donald John Trump is colluding with the Italian Mafia and Black Nobility of Rome. Donald Trump literally works with the Italian Mafia which is part of the Sicilian Mafia and the Sicilian Mafia is classified as a terrorist organization. The Black Nobility or Roman nobles that run the Vatican own Cosa Nostra. The Genovese-Gambino owned S&A Concrete were involved in building the Trump Towers in Manhattan. Donald Trump used Roy Cohn as his attorney and Cohn has also worked for former Genovese boss Tony Salerno, Gambino boss Carmine Galante, and John Gotti. Atlantic City was built up by the mafia and is where Trump built his casino. The mafia held one of their earliest meetings there in 1929 known as the Atlantic City Conference including Italian, Jewish, and Irish mafia bosses. Donald Trump purchased part of the property for his casino from the mafia hitman Salvatore Testa. The mafia launder their personal criminal profits through casinos and have run the casinos in Atlantic City since its beginnings. The mafia skim profits from casinos and that is why casinos often go bankrupt. The Merlinos were working on Harrah's about a year before Trump finalized its purchase. Joey Merlino is the current boss of the Philadelphia crime family. Robert Libutti frequented Trump's Plaza Hotel and Casino and was an associate of the Gambino crime family and friend of John Gotti. Trump and Libutti can be seen together in video. Robert Libutti's daughter Edith further revealed his relations with Trump as friends in an interview. Trump's Counselor to the President Kellyanne Conway's grandfather was Jimmy 'The Brute' DiNatale a member of Cosa Nostra and Philly Mob. Donald Trump is connected with Joey Cinque who is a convicted mobster and Gambino associate. Donald Trump is an associate of the Five Families and Philly Mob and Prince Vittorio Emanuele IV of Savoy is the primary owner of the Genovese crime family. The Genovese crime family have a large faction operating in New Jersey and Atlantic City. The Savoy family has a Savoy-Genovese noble branch and the Savoy family hold the title of Prince of Naples where the Genovese crime boss Vito Genovese was from. Trump has worked with the Russian gangster Felix Sater who has been convicted of assault and fraud. Felix Sater and the Italian Mafia committed fraud through White Rock Partners. Prince Aimone of Savoy-Aosta has lived and worked in Russia and met with Vladimir Putin. Prince Roffredo Gaetani dated Ivana Trump and he is a hidden top owner of the Gambino crime family. Prince Roffredo Gaetani and his brother Prince Luca faked their deaths and have been hiding out in Switzerland with Prince Vittorio. Prince Vittorio has been investigated for racketeering, corruption, and exploitation of prostitution as well as charged with murder in the past. It was the Savoy family that put the fascist dictator Benito Mussolini in power. Atlantic City where Trump owned his casino is mostly controlled by the Philly Mob currently headed up by the mafia boss Joey Merlino. Philadelphia is nicknamed the "City of Brotherly Love" and Prince Roffredo's full name is Prince Roffredo Gaetani-d'Aragona-Lovatelli.

Two months later, Trump Management, represented by Roy M. Cohn, turned around and sued the United States government for $100 million (roughly $500 million in today's terms), asserting that the charges were "irresponsible and baseless."

Gotti was arrested after a year on the lam. His grateful bosses hired lawyer-fixer Roy Cohn to see what he could do, and Cohn could do a lot. He got the case knocked down to attempted manslaughter, and Gotti wound up doing less time for killing - two years - than he had done for a hijacking that involved $7,000 worth of women's dresses.

Philip “Crazy Phil” Leonetti, a convicted killer and onetime underboss of the Philadelphia-area mob family, attended the funeral of Kellyanne Conway's grandfather, mob associate Jimmy “The Brute’ DiNatale in early May 1983.

Conway's mother, Denise Fitzpatrick, an Atco, Camden County resident, acknowledged her father's association with the mob in a Daily Mail story.

Though Leonetti now admits having been the triggerman, he and his associates beat the Falcone murder rap aided by alibis provided by DiNatale and Siligato.

Prince Marcantonio Colonna of Rome with Ivana Trump and this is in 1990 when Donald Trump and Ivana Trump were still married. Prince Marcantonio's ancestor Baron Niccolo Turrisi Colonna of Sicily was suspected of being a leader of the mafia in the 19th century.

Niccolò Turrisi Colonna, baron of Gorgo and Bonvicino, was born in Palermo on 08.08.1817. His father Mauro was a nobleman of the last hour, but his mother, Rosalia Colonna, belonged to one of the most noble and prestigious families of Sicily, that of the dukes of Cesarò.

A few years later, the President of the Senate, Domenico Farini, revealed that two deputies, Morana and La Porta, confided to him that Turrisi Colonna was actually the politician who, taking advantage of his role, provided protection for the various mafia members; moreover, he was the link between a certain collusive policy and local entrepreneurship. Even today, to the question that Dino Paternostro puts to its readers in the newspaper "La Sicilia" ... if Turrisi Colonna were the enemy or protector of the mafia ... ", one is not able to answer.

The noble Turrisi Colonna family resided in a sumptuous palace (still existing) in front of the Cathedral, where the future mayor of Palermo and the sisters Annetta (painter) and Giuseppina (poet) were born.

In this capacity the baron, after a few days, "had appointed captain of a well-known mafia captain of a department of the national guard Antonino Giammona. And he defended it when Doctor Galati accused him of being the Mafia leader of the Uditore district "(see Umberto Santino" The forgotten mafia ", Melampo edizioni, 2017, pages 80 and 81). In 1961 Turrisi was elected national deputy and, four years later, senator of the kingdom.

Prince Victor Emanuele

He believes the former prince is the leader of a criminal gang involved with illegal gambling and prostitution and more.

Yet the transcripts of the prosecutor's wiretaps of the prince and his associates that have been filling Italy's daily papers appear to provide startling evidence of guilt. They give a vivid impression of a man, already immensely wealthy but consumed with greed, and using his name and influence to grub money from seedy affairs of every sort, from casinos and video-game slot machines in tax havens to prostitution, and trying to use his influence with the authorities, including the tax police, to insulate himself from attack.

Confronted with evidence that he trousered a bribe of €20,000 to allow a Sicilian businessman, Rocco Migliardi, to run his video-poker gaming machines in Campione d'Italia, an Italian enclave in Switzerland, he replied, "It's ridiculous to think that I would dirty my hands for a mere €20,000, for me that's mere pocket money."

The men in question are Felix Sater and Salvatore Lauria, onetime partners at the securities broker-dealer White Rock Partners & Co. They pleaded guilty in 1998 to violating federal anti-racketeering law in a pump-and-dump scheme by which they acquired blocks of newly issued public stock, paid other brokers at the firm to sell the shares to inflate the price, then sold their own shares at a profit.

While federal law enforcement officials acknowledged yesterday that Wall Street and La Cosa Nostra had a tangled history of illicit dealings, they said the current scheme, run from the offices of two financial district brokerage firms, involved the most senior members of the Mafia to date.

Mr. Gravano's brother-in-law, Edward Garafola, 61, of Staten Island, was indicted along with five other people the authorities called organized crime figures, including Frank Coppa, 58, of Manalapan, N.J., who was described as a captain in the Bonanno crime family. At least two members of the Russian Mafia were also charged, the authorities said.

According to the indictment, the scheme, which lasted from 1993 to 1996, was led by John Doukas, 52, of Cross River, N.Y., and Walter Durchalter, 34, of Middle Village, N.Y., who together controlled the brokerage firms of White Rock Partners & Company and State Street Capital Markets Corporation in downtown Manhattan.

Prince Vittorio Emanuele IV of Savoy is one of Trump's real bosses and he is the head of the Italian royal family and the primary owner of the Genovese crime family. Prince Vittorio sold military weapons to Middle Eastern nations under sanctions while working for Agusta during the 70's and 80's. Prince Vittorio has also been charged with murder and investigated for exploitation of prostitution, bribes, and gambling rackets.
